

Olivia F 1321

Chapter 1321

Olivia was cooking medicinal foods in the kitchen when Tatiana walked in.

She even asked a maid to prepare a chicken and some nourishing ingredients.

Olivia was surprised to see Tatiana put on an apron. The ingredients she asked for didn't seem to be ingredients for a soup for Mason.

They were more like ingredients for someone who had just had a miscarriage.

"Grandma, are you cooking for Molly?"

Tatiana used to look down on Olivia. She finally understood that Olivia was a doctor with morals when she saw her trying so hard to protect Molly in the camera footage.

When she was operating on Mason, she wasn't thinking about what she could gain from it.

She was only thinking about Mason's well-being. Or else, she wouldn't have protected the sister of Ethan's rival.

But because of her preconception about Olivia, she had always thought Olivia was a very cunning woman.

Tatiana sighed. "I'll be honest with you. I'm not trying to appear nice to them. I really do want to atone for the crime that Krystal committed.

"I do also think that she was treated very unfairly and cruelly."

For some reason, probably because Molly was beaten up so badly by Krystal, Tatiana felt her chest tighten when she thought about Molly.

She really didn't deserve what happened to her.

Meeting Olivia's prying gaze, Tatiana smiled bitterly.

"I know you must feel like Krystal is a bad-tempered and dumb person.

"She wasn't with us when she was young. She only came to live with us after she was grown up.

"That was why we spoiled her rotten. No one expected her to become like this.

"As her mother, I'm ashamed of her actions. I just want to do something within my power to make up for the harm she has caused."

"Understood." Olivia didn't say anything else.

Both of them finished cooking at about the same time. They put the food into thermal containers.

"Let's go, Grandma."

Yale's subordinates were standing guard outside the ward, forbidding anyone from entering. They only allowed them to enter because they saw Olivia.

In terms of medical prowess, Mason was the best testament to Olivia's capabilities.

Yale was counting on her to nurse Molly back to health. So, he was very courteous to her.

Just as they got to the door, they heard a woman's shrill voice.

Mrs. Kingston put her hands on her hips and said, "Don't forget that we are the ones who gave you everything you have.

"So what if you had a miscarriage? You would have deserved it even if Ms. Heath beat you to death.

"How dare you tell Yale to say all those disrespectful things to the Heaths? I knew I shouldn't have adopted an ungrateful bitch like you."

"Mom, I didn't do that. I just woke up. I don't know what happened. I didn't tell Yale to do anything.

Please believe..."

Mrs. Kingston gave Molly a resounding slap.

"Ms. Heath was right. You're just a homewrecker. You..."

Adalia quickly changed her attitude when she saw Tatiana. She greeted Tatiana with a slight bow.

"Why have you come, Mrs. Heath? This bitch is not worthy of your time."

Olivia quickly went over to Molly's side. She placed the food containers aside and asked gently, "Are you okay?"

"I... I'm fine," Molly replied softly.

She was very slender. Her forehead was bandaged, and her face was swollen.

One side was slapped by Krystal. The other was just slapped by Adalia.

Her skin was very pale, so the slightest blemish was very obvious.

Chapter 1322

Tatiana snorted. "If I didn't come, how would I find out how you treat your own daughter, Mrs.

Kingston."

"She's just a brat that we adopted. We provided for her out of kindness. But she actually dared to sow discord between Yale and Ms. Heath. She caused this marriage to crumble.

"I think Ms. Heath was right. She deserved that beating!"

Olivia felt like Krystal was Adalia's daughter instead. Both of them were extremely foul-mouthed.

Tatiana was a mother who loved her children.

Although Linus had a strict upbringing, she would slip him some knee pads she made herself when he was punished and had to kneel for long periods of time.

That was also why she spoiled Krystal rotten. She would never allow anyone to harm her children.

She ignored Adalia and went to Molly's side.

She asked gently, "How are you doing, child?"

Molly looked at the pretty and elegant woman whom she didn't know cautiously.

"I'm okay."

"How are you? Look at how swollen your face is!"

Adalia knew that Tatiana had to come over to attempt to make amends because Krystal was the perpetrator.

She gave Molly a look. "This is Mrs. Heath. You should feel honored that she came in person to visit you."

Molly took a good look at Tatiana. So, this was Krystal's mother? They looked nothing like each other.

Be it looks or temperament, they were completely different.

It made her feel closer to Tatiana.

She quickly came back to her senses. She was just a nobody. She didn't have the right to think of Tatiana like that.

She lowered her head apologetically. "Thanks, Mrs. Heath. I'm fine. Thanks for coming to visit me."

Olivia brought over some ointment for Molly's swollen face. She walked in and saw how meek Molly was being.

She was even trying to get off the bed.

Olivia couldn't help but feel bad for Molly.

"You just underwent dilation and curettage. Your stomach should still be hurting. You should just stay in bed.

"Don't get up. Mrs. Heath doesn't care about such things."

Tatiana helped Molly back into the bed. "Lay down, and don't move."

Olivia was about to apply the ointment on Molly when Tatiana took it from her. "Let me do it."

"Okay."

Olivia saw that Adalia was about to talk again. She spoke up and told her to leave.

"Mrs. Kingston, Molly needs to rest now. Why don't you just go home for home."

Adalia wasn't about to give up on the chance to talk to Tatiana in private.

"I don't have anything else to do. I came here specifically to take care of Molly."

"I don't know what came over me. I..."

"She was just in surgery and is devastated that she lost her baby. She needs rest, not blame or a scolding.

Adalia was a little upset, but she didn't dare to cross Olivia or Tatiana.

So, she left after exchanging pleasantries for a little while longer.

As soon as she left, it felt like the air in the room cleared up. The annoying voice was gone.

Tatiana applied the ointment on Molly's face gently.

Molly was overwhelmed. She wanted to get off the bed again.

"Please forgive my brother. If he said anything to offend you in a fit of rage, I apologize in his stead."

Chapter 1323

Molly was naïve, but she wasn't dumb. She knew something happened because of what Adalia said.

Yale loved her so much. She didn't know what extreme measures he would take when he saw her in this state.

Adalia couldn't do anything about Yale. So, she came here to vent her frustration.

Molly hated the fact that she was a burden to Yale. She was about to get on her knees on the bed to apologize to Tatiana.

Seeing how scared and uneasy she was, Tatiana and Olivia helped her lay down properly on the bed again.

Olivia snapped, "Don't move! Do you want to bleed out and die?"

Molly didn't know anything about medicine. She only felt like there was some bleeding in her nether region after she moved.

This was a normal physiological phenomenon after dilation and curettage. But she froze when she thought about what Olivia said.

She was scared of dying because Yale would lose his mind if she died.

Tatiana sighed when she saw how docile Molly was. She was a very pitiable person.

It might seem like she was just trying to make amends in Krystal's stead, but Tatiana actually felt bad for Molly.

She heard that Molly's adoption was just a charity act for publicity.

Judging from Adalia's attitude, Tatiana could guess how hard Molly's life was in the Kingston household.

She was the one who was beaten up, and yet she was the one who apologized. She really had it rough.

"Alright, Molly, you have to relax. Don't be so nervous."

Tatiana continued to apply the ointment on Molly. "Do you feel uncomfortable anywhere else?"

Tatiana's voice was very gentle. Molly, who had never experienced motherly love in her life, suddenly teared up.

"Mrs. Heath, my... my stomach hurts."

Olivia frowned. "Why didn't you say so earlier? Aren't you on patient-controlled analgesia?"

It was normal for a patient's stomach to hurt after dilation and curettage. Molly was in such a bad state.

Her pain would definitely be several times worse than a normal patient.

"Maybe they forgot."

It could be understandable if normal families didn't want to spend the money for patient-controlled analgesia, but the Kingstons could very well afford it.

Besides, this was Chris' hospital. Ethan had told him to take good care of the patients.

There was only one reason why patient-controlled analgesia wasn't used. Adalia stopped the nurses from using it!

She blamed Molly for all the things that Yale did. That was why she was making things difficult for Molly even when Molly was already in such a bad condition.

Olivia and Tatiana looked at each other. Both of them had guessed why Molly wasn't using any patient-controlled analgesia.

They used to be at odds, but they were strangely in sync at that very moment.

"I'll get a nurse to give you some right now."

Olivia exited the room, went to look for Chris, and scolded him harshly.

Chris asked a nurse to hook Molly up with some patient-controlled analgesia.

"That was her daughter, so we could only respect her wishes as the patient's family member."

"I'm sorry. I shouldn't have taken it out on you."

Olivia was just frustrated to see Molly in such a horrible state.

"Where did Yale go?" Olivia asked anxiously.

"He was here the whole time. He only left after Molly's surgery was finished. I think he went to get changed. He didn't want to scare Molly with his bloodied clothes."

So, that was why Adalia was able to get the chance to bully Molly.

"Keep an eye out on her."

Chris raised an eyebrow. "Have you forgotten that Yale tried to expose your ex-husband's identity a few years ago?"

"He caused the two of you to be chased after by assassins, and the two of you almost died."

"This is a great chance to get revenge on him. Why are you helping him so much?"

Chapter 1324

There were only two people left in the room.

Molly was given patient-controlled analgesia, so she wasn't in as much pain as before.

Tatiana looked at her tenderly. "Do you feel better now?"

Molly nodded. "I feel better. You don't have to care about me, Mrs. Heath. I won't hate Ms. Heath for this.

"I was in the wrong. It was all my fault. Please forgive Yale for his actions."

"The two of you are very close, aren't you?" Tatiana sighed.

Yale was willing to give everything up for Molly's sake and ran into the Heath Residence alone. He was even prepared to cut ties with the Kingston family.

On the other hand, Molly was badly beaten up, but the only thing on her mind was Yale.

"Don't worry. I'm here to apologize for what Krystal did. It doesn't matter if you're angry at her or not.

"It's a fact that she did something wrong. We won't cover it up for her."

Tatiana originally came here to do exactly that. She wanted Molly to talk Yale out of filing that lawsuit.

But she couldn't find it in her to speak when she saw how submissive Molly was, which was a stark contrast to how Krystal acted.

"You must be hungry. Olivia and I made some food. You don't have to worry about anything else for now."

Molly was in such a weakened state, but Adalia didn't even bring her any food.

She might not be her biological daughter, but it was still a very cruel way to treat her.

Tatiana opened the container with chicken soup.

"Have some soup. I made it with some free-range chicken. Try and see if it tastes good."

"Mrs. Heath, I-I'm unworthy of eating your cooking. I'm just—"

Tatiana's chest tightened when she saw Molly acting so fearfully and timidly.

"Give it a try and see if it's good. Don't be afraid. It's a little hot."

After Molly took a few sips, Tatiana asked, "How is it? You're still recovering, so I made it milder."

Molly's tears fell into the chicken soup and stirred up some ripples.

"It's delicious. Thanks, Mrs. Heath."

Molly wiped her tears hastily. "Mrs. Heath, I'm not crying on purpose."

The Kingstons would say she was trying to seduce men with her tears and yell profanities at her. She thought Tatiana would do the same.

Unexpectedly, Tatiana just held her hand gently.

"Don't cry when you're still recovering from a miscarriage. Crying is bad for your eyes."

For some reason, Tatiana felt like someone held a tight grip on her heart when Molly cried. It pained her to see Molly cry.

"Since I'm free, I'll cook some chicken soup for you every day from now on."

"You really don't have to do that, Mrs. Heath. Are you here because Yale wants to sue Ms. Heath?"

"He is a very stubborn man. Don't worry. I'll definitely convince him to drop this lawsuit."

Tatiana felt even more remorseful when she met Molly's pure and innocent gaze.

"I'm just here to check on you. Don't be sad. You're making me feel bad as well."

Molly started to sip on the soup in silence.

Tatiana looked at how well-mannered Molly was. She was the ideal daughter that Tatiana wanted.

Linus didn't look like her but was the spitting image of Mason.

Krystal was just nothing like her. She had done nothing but cause trouble ever since she was brought back to the family.

In the past, Tatiana just drew it up to Krystal being immature because she was still just a child.

She would never think that she was in the wrong.

This time, Tatiana didn't want to clean up Krystal's mess anymore.

Chapter 1325

Tatiana took Molly's hand.

"Molly, I really feel bad for you. Mrs. Kingston mistreats you, doesn't she?"

Molly didn't dare to speak ill of other people. So, she shook her head.

"She... She just lost her temper today."

"You must've had a sad childhood with a foster parent like her. If you are willing, why don't you become my goddaughter?"

"You won't be bullied anymore with the Heath family's protection."

Molly was stunned. She stammered, "I... I..."

She knew that Tatiana was just trying to talk her out of pressing charges. But she never intended to press charges against Krystal.

The door was suddenly opened.

It was Yale who had showered and changed into a new set of clothes.

"Molly!"

Yale looked anxious, but he was momentarily stunned when he saw Tatiana. Then he realized why Tatiana was there. His gaze quickly turned cautious.

"Mrs. Heath."

Tatiana thought about what Yale said back at the Heath Residence. She understood how he felt after she met Molly. So, she wasn't angry.

"I'm just here to check on Molly. I was just saying how we got along well, and I want her to be my goddaughter."

Yale wasn't happy at all. He smiled mockingly.

"Mrs. Heath, you're really pulling out all the stops just to help Krystal get off scot-free, aren't you?"

Tatiana was a little embarrassed.

"Yes, that was what I wanted to do initially, but I changed my mind. I..."

Yale didn't listen to a single word she said. He was destined to have to stand against everyone since he made the decision to stand with Molly.

"Mrs. Heath, I've already cut ties with the Kingston family officially. I don't care how the Kingstons try to suck up to the Heath family.

"As Molly's brother, I just want to get justice for my sister.

"As for these tricks you're trying to pull, I suggest you give up on them. I won't give up on this lawsuit."

Yale gestured for Tatiana to leave. "The hospital doesn't suit you. I'll take care of my own sister. Please leave."

Tatiana opened her mouth, but she ended up not saying anything. Truth be told, nothing she could say would change Yale's mind.

She patted Molly on the shoulder. "Rest well. I really did cook this soup. Be sure to finish it. I'll visit you again next time."

Molly didn't know what to say. She couldn't reveal her relationship with Yale to Tatiana.

So, she bit her lip before saying, "Thanks for coming to visit me."

Yale escorted Tatiana to the door.

"I still need to take care of her, so I won't be seeing you off."

As soon as Tatiana walked out the door, Yale slammed the door shut behind her.

Olivia witnessed that as she returned to the room. She couldn't help but smile at the irony.

Yale used to be very subservient to the Heaths. It was the complete opposite this time.

It was true that people would lose their fear when they didn't have anything else to lose.

"Grandma, did they drive you out?"

The truly despicable ones were people like Krystal and Lisa.

Tatiana shrugged. "You saw everything, didn't you?"

"I'll go downstairs with you."

Olivia actually wanted to ask Tatiana some questions.

"Grandma, has Lisa been working for you for a long time?"

"Why are you bringing her up all of a sudden?"

"She was the one who led the charge into the Kingston Residence.

Tatiana frowned as she started to think back to what was in the security footage.

"What are you trying to say?"

Olivia didn't have any proof. She could only offer a warning.

"You have to be careful of her. She's not as simple as she seems to be."

Chapter 1326

Tatiana thought about what Olivia said on the way home.

Honestly, her attention was completely on Krystal and Molly. She wasn't in the mood to care about anyone else.

Olivia's words made her feel like something was wrong.

Back when Krystal was driven out of the Heath family, Lisa was the one who said she wanted to talk some sense into Krystal.

She went to where Krystal was and never returned.

She gave Tatiana a call and told her that she wanted to stay there and take care of Krystal.

Krystal didn't have any experience taking care of babies.

Lisa was a meticulous person and had been taking care of Krystal since she was a child. It was only natural that the two of them were close.

She got back to the Heath Residence as she was spacing out and walked right into Mason.

Mason looked at her. "What are you lost in thought about? Did you accomplish what you went to do?"

Tatiana snapped back to reality. "Do you have a copy of the video that Yale played?"

"Linus kept a copy. Why?"

"I need to take a look at it."

They turned on the video in the bedroom. This time, Tatiana's attention was focused on Lisa.

As expected, the entire incident was different when Lisa was at the center of attention, from her entering the Kingston Residence to her attacking Florence.

If Krystal attacked Molly because of a misunderstanding, then why would Lisa have a grudge against a maid?

Florence was pretty badly injured.

Tatiana saw the arrogance and viciousness on Lisa's face. It was completely different from the usually hardworking and honest maid that she was.

Instead, her expression seemed a little familiar.

"Wait. Pause the video," Mason said.

Tatiana did as he said.

The video stopped at Krystal and Lisa having the same smug expression after having beaten up their respective victims.

Tatiana grabbed Mason's hand. "Mason, don't you think the two of them look alike?"

Mason remained silent with an upset expression, but he clearly had some ideas forming in his mind.

Tatiana quickly dropped the unrealistic thought. "What nonsense am I spewing? Lisa raised Krystal since she was just a child. It's probably just facial mimicry."

"I seem to remember that Lisa also gave birth to a child, right?"

"That's right. We gave birth to our babies almost simultaneously. But she was unlucky.

"Her baby died shortly after birth. That was why she offered to be Krystal's nanny.

"I figured that I knew her well, and it wouldn't impact my body's recovery. It would even help her get through the pain of losing her baby. So, I agreed."

"Then, Krystal was sent to the countryside. Lisa also volunteered to tag along to care for Krystal."

Tatiana tightened her grip on Mason's hand. "What are you trying to say, Mason?"

"But she was spinning all sorts of lies today and tried to twist the facts.

"Do you think we would believe her or Yale if Yale didn't have the security footage?"

"The footage and the information I gathered imply that Lisa isn't really a good person."

"Why would she want to do that? Is she trying to set Krystal up?"

Mason said coldly, "No, she wasn't trying to harm Krystal. It's the complete opposite.

"She loves Krystal too much, so much so that she was willing to cover up Krystal's wrongdoing like us.

"She didn't want any harm to befall Krystal."

"Do you mean..."

"Krystal is completely unrelated to her. Why would she care about Krystal to this degree?"

Chapter 1327

Tatiana frowned.

"Would it be because she lost her own child and raised Krystal since she was a child? So, she treats Krystal like her own child?"

"That's not right."

Mason was sure that Lisa was suspicious.

"She has never looked people in the eyes in the years she has been working in the Heath Residence.

"She kept her head lowered all the time. I had thought she was just being reserved. But do you think it's possible that she did it on purpose? So that we wouldn't look at her face too closely?"

Lisa had her head held high when she was out. She didn't mind showing her face to others.

After listening to what Mason said, Tatiana realized that other than the days when Lisa wasn't by her side, she would always have her head lowered in a subservient manner.

"Mason, are you suspecting that Krystal..."

"You're thinking the same thing, aren't you?"

Initially, Mason only thought Lisa's actions were suspicious.

Since Tatiana wanted to look at the security footage, he thought he might as well confirm his suspicions.

Some things that he found to be strange before were starting to make sense.

"Where is Krystal?"

"She's in her room." Tatiana bit her lip. She felt anxious. That thought was too extreme.

"Alright, don't do anything to cause her to be suspicious. I'll have the doctor do a DNA test for her under the guise of a physical checkup.

"You must not reveal our objective even if the results aren't what we suspect them to be. That Lisa might be a threat either way."

Tatiana was distorted by her anxiety. She didn't think about that at all. But when doubt was sown, it would only grow.

"If it's what we think it is, then our child..."

Mason patted her on the shoulder. "Let's not make any hasty assumptions. It can wait until we get the results of the test."

The two of them didn't tell anyone about what they discussed.

Meanwhile, Krystal was sitting on her bed and whining to Lisa.

"Lisa, it's all because of that idea you suggested. You told me we had to get rid of that bitch, so that Yale would know not to mess with me.

"Then, he won't sleep around in the future. But look what happened?"

Krystal noticed that Lisa's face was swollen, but she wasn't concerned at all. She was only thinking about herself.

"Is Yale a complete idiot? Why would he pass on such a great opportunity?"

"It was a one-in-a-million chance, and he wants to sue me instead? What a joke. Does he really think I would lose?"

When Krystal realized that her words weren't met with approval, she threw a pillow at Lisa.

"Why are you not saying anything? You're the one that caused this mess. What should I do now?"

Lisa snapped back to reality. "What were you saying?"

This had been how they were for all these years. That was why Krystal trusted Lisa a lot.

Lisa's mind was filled with the look Mason gave her.

What kind of man was Mason? He started from the bottom and rose to the top.

Even though he didn't say anything, Lisa could feel that Mason realized something was wrong.

She couldn't begin to imagine what would happen if her secret was ever exposed.

"Lisa, what's wrong with you? Say something."

Lisa was panicking. "Ms. Heath, would you be willing to leave the Heath family with me?"

Krystal looked at her with a confused expression.

Chapter 1328

In the past, she thought she had found true love. But she finally understood that the love of a man was fleeting.

The only people who truly loved her were her family.

"Lisa, I finally understand that no matter what I do, my family might yell at me, but they will still clean up my mess.

"Look at Mom. She said she didn't want to do anything for me anymore, but she still cooked some soup and brought it to that bitch in person."

Krystal said smugly, "My dad said he wanted to cut ties with me, but he didn't mean it. He probably already came to an agreement with the Kingstons in private."

The door opened right after she said that. Linus brought a doctor with him.

"Linus, what's the situation?"

Linus didn't say much. His tone was cold. "I just got someone to give you a checkup. You shouldn't have done that when you're pregnant."

"Linus, you know that I've always been physically fit. It's just beating someone up. That's no problem for me.

"The only issue is I got some stitches on my forehead. Is Dad still angry?"

Linus felt a sense of disdain when he realized that Krystal was completely unrepentant. He also thought about the woman she beat up for no reason.

"Let's do the checkup first."

When Lisa noticed that they were about to take a blood sample, she stopped them nervously.

"Mr. Heath, why is there a need for a blood sample? I thought it was a physical checkup?"

Linus shot her a cold glance. "Do I need to explain myself to you?"

"That... That's not it. I just feel like there's no need for that. Ms. Heath's in good health, there is no need for this..."

"Lisa, Linus is just worried about me and the baby. He has always been cautious and meticulous."

Krystal didn't think too much about it as she rolled up her sleeve. "Take the sample."

Lisa had a bad feeling about it when the needle was stuck into Krystal's arm.

She comforted herself by telling herself that the Heaths wouldn't find out about this so soon. But the look that Mason gave her just kept appearing in her mind.

It made her anxious.

After taking the blood sample, the doctor also performed a checkup.

"Don't worry, Mr. Heath. Ms. Heath is perfectly healthy. The baby is fine, too."

"I told you so. Nothing would happen to me. It's just a pity that I didn't manage to kill that bitch. Yale actually went crazy for her."

Linus waved his hand and gestured for the doctor to leave.

Seeing that he was about to leave, Krystal grabbed Linus' wrist. "Linus, did Yale relent?"

Linus looked at his wrist and said in a heavy tone, "Other than that, don't you have anything else you want to say about this mess you made?"

Perhaps some expression of guilt or remorse would be nice.

But neither of these emotions appeared in Krystal's eyes. Instead, there was even more viciousness in her eyes.

"What I meant was, you don't have anything you want to say to Molly Kingston?"

Krystal suddenly got angry at the mention of that name.

"He is actually making a fuss because of a lowly peasant like her. Does he think she's on my level?"

Linus broke free of her grasp. "Krystal, you're really repulsive."

He turned and left after he said that. Krystal still didn't understand what she did wrong.

"How can you say that about me, Linus? Are you going to yell at me because of an outsider, too?"

Then, the door was locked, and Lisa's voice came from outside the room.

Krystal realized that she had been placed under house arrest.

"Mr. Heath, what are you doing? Ms. Heath is still pregnant," Lisa said nervously.

"It's because she's still pregnant that I want her to stop doing anything stupid."

"Even so, there's no need to lock her up. Why don't you let me in so I can take care of her? I'm worried about her being alone in there."

Lisa knew Krystal very well. She had been spoiled rotten since she was young. She was completely vulnerable to setbacks.

Linus took a step closer to Lisa. His face, which looked a lot like Mason's, exuded a lot of pressure. It made Lisa feel uneasy.

"You seem especially concerned about my sister, Ms. Walker."

Lisa clutched her sleeves tightly. "That's true. My baby died shortly after its birth. I raised Ms. Heath. It's only natural that I care about her."

"No wonder. I feel like she is becoming more like you in terms of her appearance and personality."

His words sent shockwaves through Lisa's mind.

Krystal, who was still oblivious, said, "What are you saying, Linus? I'm the daughter of the Heath family.

Why would I be like a lowly maid?"

Lisa's face paled, but she added, "Ms. Heath is right. Why would she be like me? I'll head over to Mrs.

Heath."

Linus stood in her path abruptly. Lisa felt even more anxious. "What is the meaning of this, Mr. Heath?"

"Ms. Walker, you beat someone up so badly. Even Krystal might go to jail. Do you really think you can get out of this unscathed?"

Lisa raised her head abruptly.

"What do you mean by that, Mr. Heath? Is the Heath family giving up on Ms. Heath?"

"What else can we do? We've done everything in our power, and we don't owe her anything. It's her own fault for doing something so stupid.

"Even now, she's completely unrepentant. We won't stop Yale from doing whatever he wants to. Be it imprisonment or a suspended sentence, we'll leave it up to the judge."

Lisa suddenly got on her knees and started to plead with Linus.

"Mr. Heath, please help her. She's just a little spoiled, but she's still your sister.

"You can't just let her rot in jail. Besides, if this matter goes to court, it would be a bad look for the Heath family."

"You shouldn't concern yourself with that, Ms. Walker. You also need to pay for what you did."

Then, Linus gave a signal, and a few men appeared.

"Ms. Walker, you should stay here for now, too. After all, you almost killed someone."

Not just injured but "almost killed". Her attacks on Florence were comparable to Krystal's attacks on

Molly.

Lisa's eyes dimmed. Why was this happening? Everything was getting worse than she expected.

If she had known that things would end up like this, she wouldn't have been so reckless!

"Mr. Heath, please help Ms. Heath. She's your sister! What is she going to do if you don't help her?"

Linus looked at her and said coldly, "Take her away."

"Lisa! Linus, let me out!" Krystal yelled as she knocked on the door.

"Watch her closely."

"Yes, Mr. Heath."

Linus went to the study.

Chapter 1330

Some memories were given new meaning when the possibilities came to light.

"The results will be out soon. Don't make any assumptions before that," Mason said.

"Understood."

The butler came over. "Mr. Heath, this is the information on the Walker family."

Mason opened the document. He got visibly upset the more he read.

"The Walkers used to be a family of fishermen in a fishing village. They have been poor for generations, right until Lisa saved Mrs. Heath's life when she was ten.

"She started working for the Benson family and worked her way up until she worked for Mrs. Heath."

It should've been an inspiring story, but the Walker family became local bullies due to their connection with Tatiana.

They went from a family of fishermen to a group of gangsters. They worked as loan sharks and even opened up some shell companies that were suspected of money laundering.

Mason threw the document to Tatiana. "Take a good look for yourself."

Tatiana said anxiously, "Mason, I really didn't know about this. When she asked me to help with the procedure, I thought it was for a regular company."

Mason slammed his palm on the table. "What a wicked woman. This is who Lisa is."

"Calm down, Dad. It won't be worth it if you fall sick over this."

Mason could feel his head throbbing, and his heartbeat started to become irregular.

"My meds."

Tatiana quickly got him his meds. "The truth is almost out. You don't have to get so worked up."

A DNA test would take at least several hours. Every second of the wait was excruciating.

Tatiana thought about Molly again. She wondered if Adalia would make things hard for Molly after she left.

She was around the same age as Krystal, but she looked so malnourished. She looked like she was about to disappear as she lay on the bed.

"I'll cook some fish stew for her. She's had a hard life."

"Mom, I thought you were doing it for Krystal's sake."

Tatiana shook her head. "That's what I planned to do at first. But you'll understand why I'm doing this now if you see her. She's really a poor girl."

...

Tatiana brought the fish stew she made to the hospital. Yale's men stopped her at the door.

Linus came with her this time. He frowned and said, "Ask Yale to come out here."

Yale didn't dare to keep them waiting. He quickly appeared at the door.

"Mrs. Heath, I told you not to waste your time. I won't change my mind no matter what you do."

"Yale, I'm just here to visit her."

Yale wasn't happy about it, but since they were already there, he couldn't just send them away. So, he moved and let them in.

Olivia was performing acupuncture on Molly. She got up when she noticed the two of them approaching.

"Grandma, Uncle Linus."

"Thanks for the hard work, Olivia. How is she doing?" Tatiana's concern seemed genuine.

"Don't worry, I'll take good care of her."

Tatiana set down the food container and held Molly's hand. "Does it still hurt?"

Molly's face was still a little swollen. It was still a little off from her usual appearance.

She replied weakly, "Mrs. Heath, it doesn't hurt anymore."

"How could it not hurt? We're both women. I understand how it feels."

Tatiana put an opal necklace on Molly.

"What is this, Mrs. Heath?" Molly felt a cool sensation on her chest.

"This is a lucky charm that will keep you safe."

She wanted to give it to Krystal, but Krystal committed this horrendous act before she was able to give it to her. Tatiana was deeply disappointed in Krystal.

She held Molly's hand and said slowly, "Molly, things will change for the better. You'll definitely recover."
