

A Promise To Pay Back

"Not until you pay for what you have taken from me, Seraphina , "

Her azure orbs widened when she heard him taking her name but how did he know her name, that question stunned her.

"How do you know my name?" Seraphina asked him while gazing into his silver eyes, shocked , which made his smirk turn more devilish.

"Hmmm... " Her face tingled when his warm breathing fanned over it.

"Do you know who I am? " He asked her and she just shrugged her head in denial, making him smirked more.

"Seems like I am not that famous yet , " He uttered, filling her eyes with confusion.

"So let me introduce myself first, "

Seraphina heard him speaking and she just stood there, staring at him untidily, until

"So my name is Ar... . " His words halted with her phone call.

Seraphina's gaze enlarged by watching Nathan calling her again. She picked his phone call.

"Hello.. "

"Sorry, I am coming. Don't worry, please. No I am not lost, I'll be there. Okay, " She hung up her phone and looked at him, who was still gazing at her.

"Sir, I have to go. My brother is waiting for me. His head boss will scold him if he finds out that I am wandering around in his company like this, " She pleaded with him through her tender voice because she didn't know who that person was in front of her. She thought he was some employee who worked at a higher post than her brother and he just continued to enjoy everything she was doing.

"So do you know who your brother's head boss is? "

Seraphina thought for a second about his question and then nodded a bit.

"Y... yes, he is Mr G.. Grayson, " She answered, slightly self dubious because she wasn't sure about her answer.

And he had never heard someone taking his name so amiably. He wondered how beautiful it would feel hearing her untainted lips moaning his name in pleasure. His thoughts for her were turning viciously evil with each growing second and Seraphina had no clue about it.

"Sir, can I leave before Mr Grayson catches me here roaming? " 1

He tilted his head in amusement and thought how naive she was. He would have thought she was faking the role of being that innocent girl ,if not because of her azure blue eyes which were like the reflection of her soul and he had already run a thorough background check on her past and he knew she was slightly mentally weak because of her past. 1

"Are you afraid of Mr Grayson? " He questioned her, staring into her beautiful gaze.

She slowly nodded and replied.

"Yes, my brother has told me his head boss is very strict, cold and scary. He punishes people if they make him angry. You should also be careful about him,sir. Don't make Mr head boss angry, "

His gaze was engulfed with more amusement at her innocent answer. He again leaned his face closer to her.

"Hmmm... I'll keep your advice. I won't make the head boss angry, "

A beautiful smile crept on her face hearing his answer and he had never seen something so alluring and enchanting like her endearing smile which was making her look more ethereal.

"So can I go now please before Mr Grayson comes here ? " She requested, showing her doe puppy eyes . He stared at her for a while and then nodded.

"Okay, "

Her eyes brightened up in happiness. She was about to run towards the door but he stopped her by holding her wrist.

A tendril of shiver ran down her spine when he touched her which Seraphina ignored and turned to look at him, whose eyes were already on her.

"You're forgetting something here, "

His words confused her. She looked everywhere and again focused her confused gaze on him.

He grinned by watching her cute confused face and then he turned around and looked at that chocolate cookie box. He took her half eaten cookie and then closed the box.

Seraphina saw him turning around and then extended that box to her which made her stunned.

"You're forgetting them, "

She swallowed hearing him and spoke

"But they are yours and you said you don't like sharing, sir, "

He chuckled at her words and stepped closer to her.

"You're a very fast learner and who said I am sharing ? "

She frowned in confusion and spoke

"But these cookies are yours and you are giving them to me, so this means sharing, "

"Well I am not giving them to you for free,"

Seraphina startled at his words which made him smirk. He bowed his face again closer to her.

"You have to pay me for all of them. Those you have already eaten and those you're going to eat, "

Seraphina gulped and pushed the box back towards him.

"I don't have my pocket money with me now. I can't pay you for them, sir, "

"Then I guess you can pay me next time when I am going to meet you, " He replied, making her happy.

"Really? "

He chuckled at her naivety that she didn't even try to understand his words.

"Really, " He spoke and handed the box to her.

"Thank you so much , sir. " She took out her back from her shoulder and then took the box from him. She shoved it inside her back and then zipped it and placed it back on her shoulders.

He just stared at her in admiration. She gave him a big and warm smile and spoke

"Thank you so much, sir. Bye bye. I will definitely pay you back for your cookies next time I am going to meet you, "

 +20 BONUS

Seraphina stated and then turned around and stormed out from that door.

And his icy grey orbs continued to stare at her disappearing figure until it completely vanished from his sinister eyesight. He took his gaze down and looked at that half eaten cookie on his palm which she had eaten .

A predacious grin appeared on his face while watching it. He took it closer to his mouth and then put it inside his mouth and nothing tasted sweeter than that because it was lacing in her sweetness.

He closed his eyes and remembered those azure eyes , which made his parted lips to speak out those words

"You will have to pay me back, Sera, "

 Comments

 Vote (5.2k)

